Dear Mr. Anderson:

This is a brief note to let you know I have not forgotten about your material. I have been exceedingly busy preparing a thesis and so have had little time for correspondence. I have gotten your material identified, however, and will send you a list soon. I am using certain of this information in the thesis and ~~am~~ acknowledging your valuable assistance therein.

The material differs from that of the bison quarry and I have thought it best to save this information for a separate report in the meantime hoping to accumulate more material from other sites this summer. What we really need is material from enough sites to get a more general survey which would eliminate chance occurrences. This, I think, will soon be done with all the work now progressing in that area.

I hope to see you again sometime this coming summer. In the meantime best holiday greetings to yourself and Harold.

I shall try and get a list of the invertebrates off to you in a little while. #

Cordially,
